References Cited

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kim (US Patent No. 6,281,640 B1) discloses a detector (13) that is connected to a switch (14). The switch is on when the light emitting element is off, thus permitting the measurement of ambient light.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6-7, 9-10, 25 and 27 are allowed over the prior art of record.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claims 6 and 25, the prior art of record fails to teach alone or in combination a signal detecting circuit which irradiates a pulse light from a light emitting element to a windshield of a vehicle, receives a reflected light by a light receiving element, processes the pulse signal from the light receiving element and inputs it to a processing unit in order to control a wiper of the vehicle, comprising, along with the other claimed features, an outside-light component reducing circuit comprising a switch circuit connected to the output side of said current - voltage converter circuit, an outside-light component voltage holding circuit connected to said switch circuit for holding the voltage of said constant outside light component, and an outside-light component voltage - current converter circuit connected to said outside-light component holding circuit for converting the held voltage to an electric current and feeding it back to the input side of said current - voltage converter circuit.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
